1. WHAT ARE COOKIES?

Cookies are small text files, usually consisting of letters and numbers, that are stored on your browser or device by the websites you visit. Through cookies and similar technologies (such as pixels, SDKs, local storage, etc.), it is possible to maintain sessions, remember preferences, ensure site security, perform performance/analytics measurements, and (where consent is given) carry out marketing activities.

2.2. Functional (Preference/Customization) Cookies

These cookies are used to remember user preferences such as language choice and display settings. If they are not strictly necessary, they are operated based on your explicit consent; if you refuse them, certain personalization features may be limited.

2.3. Performance and Analytics Cookies

These cookies are used to measure site traffic, generate usage statistics, detect errors and improve performance. As these cookies are not strictly necessary, they are, as a rule, operated based on your explicit consent.
